IMPACT-DRIVEN UNIVERSITIES: EDUCATION, LEADERSHIP, AND SOCIETAL CHANGE

Join the first conference of its kind in Central Asia, setting a new benchmark for impact-driven higher education and regional collaboration.

- Contribute to discussions on impact-driven universities, exploring how education and leadership can translate social, economic, and environmental commitments into measurable societal change.
- Engage with university leaders, policymakers, and experts, who are shaping education systems and leadership models that place societal impact at the core of institutional strategy.
- Explore international best practices in impact-oriented education and leadership, while addressing Central Asia-specific challenges and opportunities.
- Create opportunities for academic collaboration and institutional partnerships that strengthen universities' capacity to act as drivers of societal transformation across regions.
